International Women's Day

March 8

International Women's Day is an annual call to action, not a celebration. It's time to bring America one step closer to its promise of liberty and justice for all.

*In the distant past, Cherokee people believed that the world existed in a precarious balance... An important part of the balance was equity between men and women."
— Wilma Pearl Mankiller, first female chief of the Cherokee Nation*

The United States no longer ranks in the top 1/3 of countries for gender equality, as ranked by both the World Economic Forum and the World Bank Group's Women, Business and the Law.

Every time a woman stands up for herself, without knowing it possibly, without claiming it, she stands up for all women. — Maya Angelou

Not until the half of our population represented by women and girls can live free from fear, violence and everyday insecurity, can we truly say we live in a fair and equal world. — UN Secretary-General António Guterres

In 2018, the United States was ranked as the 10th most dangerous country in the world for women.

- America ranked third, with Syria, for risk of sexual violence, harassment and coercion into sex.
- America ranked sixth regarding non-sexual violence such as domestic and mental abuse.
- The CDC estimates that around half of American women will experience some sort of sexual violence in their lifetime.

America's gender equality gap won't close for over 200 years, over twice the estimated international average (across all countries).

If we want to make workplaces more open, we need to acknowledge logistical challenges... by being more open, it might create a path for other women. — Jacinda Ardern

We have to dare to modernize to get room to maneuver for the priorities of the future. — Erna Solberg

168 international constitutions include gender equality and so should ours.

This isn't an issue of politics — it's an issue of fairness for all Americans. Congress must press forward and end any unnecessary barriers to the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. — Rep. Tom Reed, NY-23

It is absolutely imperative that every human being's freedom and human rights are respected, all over the world. Freedom and human rights — that is what the world needs most, that is what everyone longs for, and should be entitled to, in order to be able to live with dignity.. — Jóhanna Sigurðardóttir

*I'm no longer accepting the things I cannot change...
I'm changing the things I cannot accept. — Angela Davis*

Start where you are. Use what you have. Do what you can. — Arthur Ashe

Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world; indeed, it's the only thing that ever has. — Margaret Mead

Have a bias toward action – let's see something happen now. You can break that big plan into small steps and take the first step right away. — Indira Ghandi
